I'd like to clarify a distinction between BNC Environmental and BNC Engineering. The two companies are now completely separate and do not share anything in common but the three letters in the name. Prior to this summer we were affiliated but have split over a difference in philosophy. While I prepared much of the removal action workplan for La Costex, I haven't been associated with any of the removal actions.

I thought I told you before but I must have been thinking of someone else. I can assure you that we at BNC Engineering will perform in a professional manner that exceeds your expectations.

I enjoyed our meeting last Friday and am looking forward to kicking off the project soon.
